Applicant's election of group I, species 3 and 4, and subspecies w4 in the reply filed on 1-10-05 is acknowledged. Because applicant did not distinctly and specifically point out the supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election has been treated as an election without traverse (MPEP § 818.03(a)).

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1, 2, 8, 36, and 37 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by McGowan.

With respect to claim 1, McGowan discloses a method of cleansing a filter including providing a source of purified water (e.g., via filter 14 stored in accumulator 16), and exposing the filter to the purified water (e.g., via backwashing as shown in FIG. 2).

Concerning claim 2, McGowan discloses a filter cartridge 14.

Concerning claim 8, McGowan discloses backwashing the filter with purified water (see FIG. 2).

With respect to claim 36, McGowan discloses a method for back flushing a filter including the steps of a) switching an inlet valve 22, a drain valve 46, and a flush valve 36 in a filtered flow path from a primary flow path used for dispensing operations to a secondary flow path, therein allowing purified water into the filtered flow path, b) flowing the purified water in the secondary flow path, wherein the secondary flow path allows the purified water to flow backwards through the filter for a predetermined interval to remove or dissolve filtered media or unclog a filter in the primary flow path (See FIG. 2.), and c) switching the inlet valve 22, the drain valve 46, and the flush valve 36 from the secondary flow path to the primary flow path to resume dispensing operations (See FIG. 1.).

Concerning claim 37, McGowan discloses repeating steps a-c to provide continued cleansing of the filter medium (see from line 60 of col. 3 to line 3 of col. 5).

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 4, 5, 39, and 40 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over McGowan in view of Hisada et al.

Regarding claims 2, 4, 39, and 40, McGowan fails to specify the flush source as containing water having a total dissolve solids reading less, 50% less, 80% less, or 95% less than that of the water normally being filtered in the filtered flow path. Hisada et al discloses that is well known to purify water with a reverse osmosis filter capable of removing 99% dissolved solids and suggests that such a filter can be used to desalinate water and can be cleaned by backwashing. It would have been obvious to have modified the filter of McGowan so as to have included a reverse osmosis filter as suggested by Hisada et al in order to provide a filtration system capable of desalinating water.
